DITORS ENJOY HOSPITALITY OF PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

ewspapermen Visit The Pitt River Developments of Corporation And View Gigantic Power Plants bout 150 editors of the state e guests of the Pacific Gas and tric Company last week on its e-day excursion to its develop- t work in the high Sierras. All officers of the company and its ision superintendents accompan- the pen wielders providing every fort and entertainment for them the trip. They left nothing un- e to make the outing pleasant profitable in the way of infor- ion. Fabulous sums are being by the company in harnessing forces of nature to bring energy the fast increasing population of State of California. The gigan- enterprise of the company dem- trates the faith it has in the fu- potentialities of the west. The ro-electric system of the concern iving cheaper power to California is enjoyed anywhere else in the ntry, its rates bing lower than in other state. This cheap power inging millions of dollars into the from the east. Eastern capital- are locating factories in and t the bay counties knowing that dient supply of cheap energy can had to run the wheels of their stry. A debt of gratitude is the Pacific Gas and Electric pany for its vision and the out- of money in harnessing the riv- of the Sierras and bringing elec- ity within reach of everyone. It s courage and pluck to start a enterprise such as this is; it s brains, energy and capital to plish big things. The officials he Pacific Gas and Electric Com- y are big brainy men, courageous; of vision, and men who do big gs. W. E. Creed, president of company, is one of the great nciers of the state. He has few ls as an organzer. A. F. Hock- eamer, treasurer, equals Andrew lon, secretary of the U. S. treas- as a handler of funds. F. A. ch, general manager of the pany, is a genial gentleman of derful business ability. The r officials are equally competent qualified in their respective de- ments.

Saturday afternoon the editors ar- d at Pit River. No. 1, where the power house was inspected. m there a three hour ride brought excursion to Pit River No. 3, the ent development of the company. t this point a diversion dam, feet in height from foundation l to the crest of the spillway, is g constructed. This dam, when pleted, will form a reservoir hav- a total capacity of 35,000 acre- extending upstream nine miles the proposed Pit No. 2 power- se. The surface of this reser- will be 50 feet vertically above floor of Peck's Bridge, which be supplanted by a beautiful e-span concrete arch bridge on of the diversion dam. The new way required to replace the por- of the existing road which will looded was completed in the fall 1923.

he diversion dam will be of the rete overflow type, having a way portion 270 feet long, cap- of passing floods of 70,000 sec- feet capacity, without overtop- the ends of the dam. This is e the maximum flood yet record- In order to prevent erosion of stream bed when floods are pass- ver the crest, an extensive apron be constructed below the dam. r the downstream end of the n there will be placed a group affle piers designed to absorb the ter portion of the energy of the ly moving water. Three sluice s, each seven feet square, will placed near the bottom of the to unwater the reservoir, should ever become necessary.

he water will be diverted through -foot diameter concrete-lined tun- 21,230 feet long, the intake be- located on the right bank 300 upstream from the dam. The ke structure will contain two e cast iron head-gates 8 feet wide by 18 feet high, with an extensive screen or grizzly placed just up- stream from the gates, to prevent floating debris from entering the tunnel.

The first section of the tunnel emerges to the surface at Rock Creek Crossing, 8,700 feet below the intake. This short section, 230 feet in length, will be constructed as a 19-foot diameter reinforced con- crete pipe supported on a reinforced concrete trestle, so that the inside of the tunnel and pipe will form a con- tinuous conduit of uniform cross- section. In order that no power be allowed to go to waste, provision will be made to divert the waters of Rock Creek into the tunnel, by con- structing a small diversion dam across the creek, from which a pipe will carry the water to the tunnel.

From Rock Creek the tunnel con- tinues 12,300 feet to the lower portal on the fill above the power-house site. An adit is privided to facili- tate tunnel driving at a point 4,640 feet below Rock creek.

At the lower portol the tunnel will branch by means of a manifold into three large steel pipe lines, each having a diameter of 10 feet 9 inches. Butterfly valves of the same diameter are provided just below the manifold in order to permit taking any ine pipe out of service for possible re- pair or painting, without shutting down the entire plant. Above these butterfly valves all construction is of a permanent nature, and it should therefore never be necessary to take the tunnel out of service.

The three penstock lines will con- tinue down the 42-degree slope of the hill approximately 330 feet to the flat on which the power-house is located. At the beginning of this flat the pipes will enter tunnels each 240 feet long and will continue to their juncture with the huge turbines in the main power-house building. Here again butterfly valves 9 feet in diameter are pro- vided for emergency use.

About 200 feet upstream and 100 feet to the left of the tunnel por- tal, a surge chamber 80 feet in diam- eter and 90 feet in height is provided to take care of the fluctuations in load in the plant. In the event of a plant shutdown, the water will flow over the spillway lip and spill down the hill through a chute to the river 315 feet below.

The power-house will be a steel frame building with concrete floors, walls and roof. The generator building, which houses the turbines and generators, will be 195 feet long and 49 feet wide, and 112 feet high on the downstream side. The low tension switching equipment is to be housed in a rear wing 35 feet wide by 162 feet long.

The generating equipment will con- sist of three 33,000 horsepower ver- tical shaft turbines furnished by the Pelton Water Wheel Company of San Francisco direct cinnected to three 27,000 kv-a generators, fur- nished by the General Eelctric Com- pany.

The 220,000 volt transformers and high-tension switching equipment will be furnished by the Wesinghouse Company and as at Pit No. 1 will be located outside on the flat just above the power-house. From these transformers the power is fed into two transmission lines which span the river and climb the steep south canyon wall to the plateau above, on which the lines continue eight miles, where they join the existing lines which were constructed to transmit the power from Pit No. 1 to the Vaca-Dixon Scbstation 202 miles away.

MENLO PARK NOTES

Miss Meta Kugeler is spending her annual vacation with friends at Rio Vista.

The Y. M. C. A. building that has stood sentinel since the war in the remount station on the Bay road, re- minding weary travelers of their Christian duty, will soon be wrecked and taken to Runnymede, where the structure is to be transformed into chicken houses. Within its walls during the war hundreds of soldier boys were given spiritual consola- tion and encouraged in their deter- mination to battle for the flag of freedom. These walls will now resound with the boistrous cock's crow in the morning disturbing the soft, sweet slumbers of the happy people of Runnymede a like the bugler of remount calling them to get up and begin their daily toil.

NEW FIRE FIGHTING DUST DEMONSTRATED

A material which it is claimed will extinguish the fiercest flames im- mediately has been demonstrated twice this week to the citizens of Redwood City. This material which has been named "Fire Dust" is the discovery of a former chief of the New York fire department. It con- sists of a combination of eight chemicals, which when exposed to the heat of the flame extinguishes the fire by absorbing all of the oxy- gen which is in contact with the flame, thereby robbing the fire of its life.

On Tuesday evening a fire was built of dry wood, saturated with kerosene at the side of the fire- house. The pile of wood was eight feet high and the fire was allowed to gain considerable headway be- fore the dust was applied, and the heat was so great that autos had to be removed from the street twenty feet away from the fire. This fire was extinguished immediately by a fraction of a tube of the Fire Dust. A similar demonstration was con- ducted Thursday evening.

This dust is claimed by its mak- ers to be the most positive fire quencher on the market, and it is also claimed that it will in no wise injure clothing, paint, woodwork or anything else. It may be taken in mouth without danger.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Com.

THAT a whole lot of cities are sleeping on their possibili- ties.

THAT a few dark clouds won't permanently darken the horizon of any city.

THAT knockers who claim the home city a dead one rarely ever help to make it a live one.

THAT the growth of any city depends upon the loyalty of its citizens. Selfish peo- ple never build, they tear down.

THAT loyalty to one's home city brings results—it makes a lot of real citizens. It takes real citizens to make a real city.

THAT in order for a city to go ahead, its citizens must have initiative. The great force behind progress is initia- tive.

THAT initiative is the power to see and start something worthwhile. Where initiative is used bigger cities are built. Where initiative is killed the building of a city ceases.

THAT the citizens who have initiative and civic pride are great assets to any city.

THAT some business men should realize that time spent in civic work, is time spent on important work for their busi- ness—for what helps their city, helps them.

When a big portion of the business men of a city spend all their time making money and spend no time boosting the hime city, development of the home citey slows up and so does business.

BRIEFS FROM WOODSIDE TOWN

During the absence of Rev. Benja- min St. John on his vacation, the Woodside church has had a complete overhauling. A new ceiling has taken the place of the old, new curtains and shades appear at the windows and new carpeting on the floor, and fresh varnish brightened the woodwork and furniture. It should cause us all as much pride as a new coat of paint on the family bus.

Construction work is proreeding on that part of the Skyline boule- vard lying between the Kings Moun- tain grade and the La Honda road. The blasting is so heavy as to shake the houses and rattle the windows in our village community. No part of the boulevard, when completed, will be more beautiful than this section lying between these two roads crossing the mountain ridge.

Who abuses his health destroys his wealth.

BURLINGAME EXCHANGE CLUB TO INVESTIGATE TUNNEL POSSIBILITIES

Lengthy Report Filed With Supervisors Tells of Need and Possibilities of Tunnel Through Mountains

The Burlingame Exchange Club filed a lengthy report of an investi- gation whch had been made by a committee of the club, with the board of supervsors of the cousty this week. The report deals with the necessity of better communication between the two sides of the county and proposes a tunnel through the mountains to shorten the distance and reduce the altitude necessary in going from Burlingame to Halfmoon Bay.

The technical problems to be confronted are gone into thoroughly in the report of the committee. The site fixed upon for the tunnel is near and a little south of the pres- ent road across the mountains. The elevation of the tunnel would be 400 feet, a trifle above the Spring Valley lakes. The report filed with the supervisors reads in part as follows: . The scenic and pleasure assets of the county are now restricted to the timbered ridge of country and the level land approaches to the quiet waters of San Francisco Bay.

There is no lack of beauty in the numerous places to which reasonably comfortable access may be had, but lack of money has kept to a feeble minimum the county's expenditures for all but what are considered ag- solute necessaries for the community life; among these necessaries has not been included improved trans- portation to points remote from the principal county centres of popula- tion.

First among the neglected, hence undeveloped, unimproved assets is the beautiful beach country extend- ing 20 miles south and 10 miles north of Halfmoon Bay. Of this section a visitor from the south writes in a recent issue of the San Francisco "Bulletin," "I have visit- ed all the beaches from San Diego north and , while I have seen won- derful beaches, I do not think any of them surpasses San Gregorio beach." He recites the difficulty in reaching San Gregorio and con- tinues, "If this beach were within reach of San Diego, Los Angeles or other large towns, there would be easy access to it over a broad high- way." San Gregorio is ten miles south of Halfmoon Bay, and his des- cription of it is true of the 30 miles of ocean shore of which it is apart.

The value of this stretch of ocean front is the opportunity it gives for a day in the open, a swim in tem- perate salt water and a play ground for the children. For one man who turns to artificial pools for swim- ming, a dance floor and the many diversions offered by installed amuse- ment equipment, there are a hun- dred who will go to the beaches with their families at the sole cost of the gasoline to carry them there. This section is a two hour's drive from Market street, San Francisco, and a lesser journey from Palo Alto. Un- fortunately, the road from Crystal Springs lake over the Cahill ridge is tortuous in its course, with grades so steep that even the best drivers do not, without good reaon, make the trip, while the less skillful avoid it altogether. To cure this condi- tion and make available at all the advantages of the beach section, your committee has considered t re- vision of the dangerous part of the road, and submits a profile, con- tour map, general map of the county and tunnel sections in illustration of the changes necessary to relieve the situation.

It will be seen that the road ap- proaches the ridge by steep grades and crosses at an elevation of 820 feet above sea level. Your com- mittee proposes a tunnel at elevation 400 with a length of 4,000 feet, and new low grade approaches ag- gregating about two miles. Con- sideration has been given to sever- al tunnel sections adapted to a variety of traffic with the cost of each based on similar work already constructed.

The site of the tunnel is readily accessible, water and power avail- able, and construction camp sites at each end of the tunnel to be had ad- jacent to the work. All these tend to a reduction of cost and a lessen- ing of the time of construction, which is placed at nine months after the camps are built and the equipment installed.

While the universal use of the automobile points to that means of transportaion for many years to come, there remain many non-owners who are mainly dependent on trolley cars, and consideration has been given to making provision for their passage through the tunnel. Again, there is a large agricultural com- munity on Halfmoon Bay engaged in artichoke cultivation, an industry threatened with extinction by com- petition in the districts farther south which have direct rail connection with the eastern markets where most of of the product is sold.

This matter will be taken up by the supervisors who will investi- gate the advisability of tunneling the mountain, and then, if they think the project wise and feasible it will be put before the people to decide.

FAMOUS MOVIE PRODUCTION RETURNING BY REQUEST

"Way Down East," a picture which attracted state-wide attention when it was first shown two years ago, is being returned to Redwood City on Monday and Tuesday at pop- ular prices. Manager W. J. O'Brien has received a number of requests for the rerunning of this great produc- tion, and has finally succeeded in se- curing it for the Sequoia theatre here. "Way Down East," at its first showing here drew full houses at prices ranging from 50c to $1; it will now be shown for 30c and 15c.

"Way Down East" is David Ward Griffith's greatest picture.

It is an elaboration (a glorified elaboration) of the cherished old stage play, and is projected on the silversheet in fresh moods of color- ful photography, thrills, tears and laughter.

In this instance, as on more than one previous occasion, we stamp Mr. Griffith anew as the master di- rector and the greatest showman.

This is an offering that compels respect, and demands for the screen the same consideration given to the legitimate stage.

The "big thrill" in "Way Down East" is reserved, of necessity, for the closing moments, when David rescues Anna from death at the falls in the ice-jammed river. The thought that this production required a de- gree of painstaking effort unequalled in cameradrama is accentuated when one views the succession of pictures showing the ice breaking up, and the course of Anna, lying unconscious on the drifting ice. When at last the ice breaks, David is shown by means of the "flash-back" (one of Mr. Grif- fith's screen innovations some years since), dashing across the broken ice in pursuit of the girl.

"Way Down East" is only one of several big pictures scheduled by Manager O'Brien to play at the local theatre within the next week or two. On Wednesday and Thursday there will be one of Cecil B. DeMille's big productions, "Triumph," and on Saturday Jack Pickford will play in the "Hill Billy." Next week the "Covered Wagon" from the well- known book of the same name will be shown, and "Babbit" by Sinclair Lewis.

SOUNDINGS TAKEN OF REDWOOD CREEK

Four men were reported to have been taking soundings Thursday from a small government boat, on both sides of Redwood creek below the Bradford street bridge. The boat was one belonging to the feder- al government, and it is thought that some dredging project for open- ing up of Redwood creek may be un- derway.

WHAT'S WRONG?

WE notice some statistics which Collier's Weekly has compiled on the percentage of voters who have cast their ballots at each election. The results are surprising and not a little alarming. The figures show that in 1896, 80 per cent of those elligible to vote cast their ballots at the election. In 1900 this percentage had shrunk to 73 per cent. In 1908 only 66 per cent of the voters went to the polls, and in 1912 only 62 per cent voted. In 1920 less than 50 per cent of the voters voted. We do not know what the election this year will have to show of the interest of the American citizens in their country, but we cannot view without apprehension the growing spirit of indifference manifested in the increasing number of registered voters who do not vote. True, the old type of self-seeking politician is in a great measure responsible for this. Many people feel that matters will be as bad one way as the other and do not bother themselves about the matter. If those who should vote, however, do not do so, there is little hope for improvement. Democratic government, and in the final analysis liberty itself depends upon the individual. Liberty is the result of constant vigilance. Our forefathers died that we might have the deciding voice in our government. Are we going to become dumb for lack of ambition to use that voice? We believe that voters who do not avail themselves of the right to vote should forfeit all right of citizenship until the next election. A person dodging three elections should be considered an alien.

FIRE, A PUBLIC MENACE

CAMPERS and smokers, being by far the biggest factors in the number of forest fires, the closing of all roads into the National Forests to campers is being considered by the North Pacific District of the Forest Service, to reduce the danger of a general conflagration. From March 1 to June 1 of this year 124 forest fires were reported in 22 national forests of Oregon and Washington, 57 in the last ten days of May. This is a most unusual situation. August is usually the worst month for forest fires. Now is the time for greatest caution and persons found guilty of negligence with fire in the forests should be dealt with severely.

BUSINESS VS. PLEASURE

AMONG our pleasures and excitements as American people is what is called "politics." There are elements of sport, gaming, speculation, and all of the chances and ups and downs of a lottery or a horse race. Politics, for this reason, has a fascination that amounts to almost passion in the minds of thousands of good citizens. The conclusion of an exciting race at the primaries, nominating conventions or elections always sees a large amount of money change hands, although betting on elections is strictly forbidden by law. The interests of a great nation of 110,000,000 people with commerce running into hundreds of millions and billions, when we add manufacturing, transportation, agriculture, mining, and public improvements must in the final and correct solution of problems become more and more a matter of business. The most serious question before our country is the relation of our government to foreign affairs, especially the restoration of fairly normal conditions in the late war-stricken nations of Europe. Morally, politically and economically, and above all to ourselves we owe it to the world to aid in bringing this about as soon as possible. To keep American industries and payrolls on a steady foundation, to see that our farmers and producers have open access for their surplus products to the markets of the world, will take something more than trickery of politics. It will take application of the best brains and the soundest business principles, which is statesmanship far beyond party lines. We must forego the pleasure and excitement of the old-fashioned politics and serve our country and the interests of humanity.

THE PARENT'S FAULT

NEWS reports this week carry the story of a boy of eight who shot and killed his cousin of six with a gun that had been given to him by his father. Another in the story of a boy of nine who killed his mother when trying to use a gun which she had just given to him. Such reports are not unusual, nor will they be until parents obtain sufficient sense not to put death-dealing weapons in the hands of irresponsible children. Guns are dangerous, they are made for the one purpose of shooting and killing, and the parent who gives a mere child an instrument of death need not b surprised if, as often happens, they find themselves the victim of their own weapon. We oppose the use of guns by children. It develops cruel and destructive qualities in the child, and children of so irresponsible an age with deadly weapons are a public menace. If the parents of the children in these two instances had had more sense, two lives might have been spared.

SUPERVISORS HEAR ROAD PROGRAMS

The necessity for developing a specific road program and laying it before the committee of nine appointed by Governor Richardson, for incorporation into the program of the State Highway Commission was emphasized before the board of supervisors at their regular meeting last Monday by Davenporte Phelps, secreary of the South San Francisco chamber of commerce. Phelps laid down a tentative plan of road work which he urged be endorsed by the supervisors of incorporation into the state's program if possible. This plan included the work of the Bay Shore highway, paving the Skyline boulevard and continuing it to Watsonville, a short cut around the cemeteries and other highway improvements.

According to Phelps, this matter would receive the backing of San Francisco, who is now demanding that some of the money of the highway bonds be spent here. The matter was given a short consideration by the supervisors and was laid over for two weeks, at which time it will be more thoroughly gone into.

A lengthy communication was received from the Exchange Club of Burlingame. This was accompanied by plans and specifications for a tunnel through the San Moreno mountains beween Burlingame and Halfmoon Bay at an elevation of 400 feet. This tunnel would replace the road which at present crosses the mountains at considerable elevation, and would considerably shorten the distance between the two sections of the county.

The matter of tunneling the mountain received some discussion, but as no definite information had been received previously, it was agreed that a committee of the supervisors should meet with a committee from the Exchange Club and talk the matter over before any action would be taken to bring the matter before the people.

The incorporation proceedings of Colma, which were to have been considered Monday, were laid over for two weeks by consent.

The bids for the sale of the Hillsborough school bonds, were opened. Eight bids were received offering premiums varying from $309 to $675. The latter made by Blythe, Witter and Co. was accepted by the board. The bonds amount to $20,000 and bear interest at 5 per cent.

Matt Zanoni of La Honda was named fire warden to succeed his brother, August Zanoni, whose resignation was accepted. Zanoni's compensation was fixed at $5 per day. W. Stough was appointed part-time fire warden for the Tunitas Glen district at the same per diem.

An estimate from the Halfmoon Bay fire district of the amount necessary to carry on the work of the commission for the coming year was referred to the auditor.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

From the Times-Gazette of July 29, 1899

The high school opens in two weeks under very favorable circumstances. The attendance will be larger than ever before. It is thought that as many as seventy pupils will enter the school. Portola, Halfmoon Bay, San Mateo, Menlo Park, Millbrae, San Gregorio, Woodside and Belmont will send representatives. One of the features of the school will be the publication of a spicy paper, giving all the news of the grammar and high school. Mr. Rossiter will edit the journal.

Johnnie Poole arrived from Dawson City last Tuesday, and was heartily greeted by his friends whom he had not seen for over a year. He is well pleased with his trip and treasures the experiences he received. Mr. Poole saw Grant, Ben Smith, Glennan and other San Mateo county boys just before he left. All were well and had high hopes of striking it rich.

ROBBERY OF VETERAN BRINGS JAIL TERM

Aleged to have tricked John Toth, a veteran of the base hospital, out of a check for $100, John Singleton of San Francisco, was sentenced by Superior Judge Ward of San Francisco this week to serve a term of one year to life in the penitentary.

Toth, it appears, went to the city with his check for $100. Here he met Singleton, who appeared very friendly and invited him to his home. At the house to which they went Toth met a woman, who perported to be Singleton's wife, and who in Siggleton's absence made amorous advances to which Toth fell victim. Singleton then appeared, trapping the veteran in a compromising position. Singleton then demanded the money, and threatened to have Toth arrested. Toth paid the money and reported the affair to the police.

TOWN COUNCIL CONSIDERS CITY PLAYGROUND NEEDS

The chief matter to receive the consideration of the board of trustees at their meeting last Monday evening was the securing for Redwood City of a play ground. The matter was brought to the attention of the board by the local post of the American Legion, who took the matter up with the city planning commission at their last meeting. It is the plan of the American Legion, and their views received the hearty support of the planning commission, to take advantage of the offer of the Harmon Foundation of New York.

The offer of the Harmon Foundation was explained to the board by two members of the local post of the Legion, John M. Robb and Charles Olsen. The Harmon Foundation offers to give $2,000 for the purchase of a playground and the same amount for the purchase of equipment. The understanding is that the town receiving the donation must be over 3,000 population and the playground purchased must be at least two acres in area.

The discussion of the playground occupied the greater part of the meeting of the board. The location of the proposed playground was thoroughly discussed, and it was the opinion of the board that the section most in need of such a place was the Five Points district. Chairman Beeger announced that he would appoint a committee to investigate the available sites and report to the board what they found.

John Harkness appeared before the board in regard to a proposal made at a recent meeting to license all contractors. Harkness stated that practically all of the builders were opposed to this measure. Trustee Ryan, who was one of the proponents of the proposed ordinance, stated that he considered that the ordinance would be a benefit to the town and to the contractors. "However," said Ryan, "if the builders are opposed to the measure, I am willing to let the matter drop." The subject will be given a full hearing before it is passed.

A number of property owners of Harrison avenue were present, and the paving of this street for two blocks west of Adams street, as asked at the previous meeting was discussed. City Engineer Charles Dimmitt, to whom the matter had been referred for an opinion, stated that as one side of the road was a deep ditch that the best way would be to pave only half of street. This met with the of the property owners, and gineer was asked to prepare and specifications.

A large American flag ceived by the town board, by Mrs. James Doolittle and James Doolittle, former Redwood City. The flag cepted and the clerk was to write a letter of thanks donors.

"WAY DOWN EAST"
Based on Wm A. Brady's Famous Play by Lottie Blair Parker and Jos R. Grismer

It's a simple story of plain folks—the greatest of all Griffith plays—uncommonly well done and with breath-taking effect.

Every audience has set spellbound through the unfolding of this great production.

With its humaneness and its story of unusual love, its thrills and its pathos, it stands alone in the field of spectacular pictures.

The all star cast which carries out the story quite eclipses any cast that ever appeared in this piece on the speaking stage.

BOSTON AS VIEWED BY A WESTENER

Superintendent of Schools Roy W. Cloud Visits The Bean Center

Boston, Mass., July 13, 1924.
Dear John:

I thought that another installment might be in order as this is my last day in the Hub of the Universe. I believe I could qualify as one of the long distance walkers in the Olmpic games when I get back home again. There are so many things to see that it keeps one jumping to see them all.

When I arrived in Boston I found most of the Elks from all over the United States here. They are a fine looking bunch of men and the town has belonged to them. Thursday afternoon they had the most wonderful parade anyone could want to see. They carried it through despite an hour of the heaviest rain I have ever seen. The only float that came through O. K. was a bunch of bathing girls from Nantucket. It didn't seem to hurt their suits any, but you should have seen some of the others. Nevertheless they carried right on and had a good time. I should judge there were then thousand Elks and Elkesses in the line.

Speaking about history, I have never seen a place that so fairly reeks with it, as Boston does. It seems to me that every place you turn there is a grave yard and in every yard some one of importance has been interred. The old Granary cemetery at Brimstone corner is especially interesting. for here we find the tombs of Ben Franklin's father and mother, that off Paul Revere, John Hancock, Samuel Adams, Mother Goose and numberless others. Also there is a very interesting big tomb in which the unbaptised babies were put. They didn't bother about a regular burial, they simply opened the door,threw the remains in, and then sealed the door again. A very simple way of taking care of the matter.

We climbed to the belfry of the old North Church, where Mr. Watkins carried his lanterns on the April night of 1775, so that Paul Revere might take his moonlight ride into Lexington. The trip furnished a good view of the city, but I really believe that we were the second ones up for the dust was thick, the heat was heavy and we were dirty and perspiry when we got down.

Old North Church is just as it was when the early colonists worshiped there. Washington and Revere also had their pews and Paul Revere's descendants still occupy his old place.

Old South Church where most of the schemes for independence were discussed is now used as a museum. It is a delightful example of Colonial architecture, and a most interesting place to visit. I wouldn't even try to tell you how many people are buried under and around it but they must have buried them thick and deep.

Friday was spent at Salem. We went to the House of Seven Gables, the old Custom House, the place where Hawthorne lived and wrote some of his best works. We were also interested in the old witchcraft house. We stood in the trial chamber and could almost imagine we could see the hard-faced old churchmen as they decreed that some poor creature should be hanged. They had a very compelling way about them too, for we learned that when one old chap refused to give testimony they took him out and put him between two big rocks and crushed him so that he would "come across" with the information. In his case they pressed the matter too far and there was a funeral the next day. We later drove along the north shore and then past the home of your old friend, Henry Cabot Lodge. The shore line of the ocean is beautiful, not jagged and rough like ours at home, but unbroken, and all along the way were bathing beaches which were particularly well patronized.

Yesterday was our busiest day. We went out to Plymouth early. Plymouth Rock is just a small stone about four feet long and two feet wide and three feet high. It isn't much to look at but it certainly stands for a great deal. On the hillside just back of it were the bodies of those who died during the first winter and back on the hill were most of the graves of those who came on the Mayflower.

I was surprised to find that John Alden and Miles Standish did not live in Plymouth. Their homes and graves are at Duxbury, just across the bay or eight miles by land from Plymouth. John Alden's home is still in good cindition, and an interesting place to see.

On our return to Boston we went over to Harvard. It is different than I had expected. It is a fine old place, but the buildings are too close together for one who has gone to Stanford. The homes of Longfellow and Lowell are just as they were when those two wonderful men lived in them.

Today if it stops raining we are going to Concord and Lexington and up Bunker Hill. We saved them until last and will go even if it continues raining but hope we may see them in the sunshine.

Tonight we start for Canada, then we will go out toward the land of the setting sun.

Yours,
R. W. C.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

After a long and weary illness extending over a period of nine months, James B. Clothier, a pioneer resident of Menlo Park, passed out, on and over the great divide last Tuesday afternoon. The end was peaceful. Surrounded by his family, he closed his eyes in sleep, heavenward his soul took its flight, his body was out of pain, his soul out of prison. He was at rest. Though suffering intense pain for many months, he was cheerful even jocular with those about him. Mr. Clothier bore his distresswith fortitude, showing the same fearlessness that marked his entire life. He was ready for the reaper, not fearing death, and when the summons came, he answered. His life was well spent, the greater portion of it in Menlo Park, and there can be no doubt but he is now enjoying the beauty and splendor of the realm of that Undiscovered Country, where his repose will be undisturbed forevermore.

Coming to California as a lad from his home in far off Canada, he settled in Bird's Landing but a short time afterwards, in the latter eighties, he came to Menlo Park. Mr. Clothier was then a dashing, handsome youth, bouyant with the spirit of manly principles and with a sincere fervor that all become his friends. In those days agone no party or dance would be complete without him, he would be missed from gatherings, and where the goddess of pleasure was, there he also appeared. He was popular, loved and liked by all the young people. No wonder it was that later in life he successfully wooed and won a beautiful Menlo belle, Miss Catherine Maloney. The marriage was an ideal one, their wedded life being one of continued happiness, no storms came to mar their barque on the matrimonial sea. Four bright, handsome children were born to the couple, Mrs. A. L. Wilkerson, Miss Gertrude Clothier, John and Frank Clothier. They were all tenderly raised and all have reached the age of manhood and womanhood.

Mr. Clothier was a carpenter and builder, working in his young years on St. Patrick's Seminary, Stanford University and on other large structures in this community. Over a quarter of a century ago, he was employed by the Frank Tanning Company of Redwood City to take charge of the construction work of the concern and there he remained until his illness caused him to retire. The big structures there were planned, devised and built by him. The company has spent over over a million dollars on the plant, Mr. Clothier supervising all the work. It was his life endeavor, and his accomplishments there will remain as a monu he came here to spend his final days mechanic and builder.

Mr. Clothier lived in Menlo Park up until three years ago when the family moved to the city in order to give the sons and daughters better educational advantages. During the last months of his illness he longed to be back again to the scenes of his youthful dreams and on last May he came here to spend his final days surrounded by friends of other times.

The many floral tributes bespoke the esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. The coffin was banked with costly pieces, as it was removed to the awaiting hearse that bore the remains of the good man, followed by a large cortege from the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. P. J. Maloney, to Holy Cross cemetery, Menlo Park, where they were laid to rest Thursday morning.

Long will the good deeds, kindness, gentleness, beauty of character, purity and honesty remain green and fresh in the memory of those who knew and loved James B. Clothier.

Menlo Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, will give a modern and old fashioned dance Tuesday evening, August 5, in the Native Sons hall.

C. H. Meyer of Menlo Heights and his sister, Mrs. Frank Buck, left Thursday on the steamer Cuba for Portland, Oregon. From Portland they will leave on a motor trip through Oregon and will return home by motor, camping along the way. They plan to be gone for about 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bowles and children of Menlo Park have left for Santa Cruz for a visit off two weks.

This is the last day in which to register in order to vote at the primary election on August 26. A supervisor, a congressman, state senator, and an assemblyman are to be voted for at the coming election. Get your name on the big book so that you may be able to cast your ballot for some of the candidates.

Miss May Casey, a former Menlo Park resident but for a number of years cashier for a wholesale furniture concern in San Francisco visited friends here on Wednesday.

The property owners on the highway held a meeting on Wednesday evening to offer protest against the state highway commission in its contemplated action in cutting down the width of the sidewalks and permitting the telephone poles to remain on an eight-foot sidewalk. With the poles in the center of the walk there will be little room for pedestrians to pass. The property owners want an eight-foot sidewalk in the clear and the poles to be either rerouted or placed under ground. The outraged public are up in arms and proposed placing the whole matter befose the railroad commission, receiving no relief there, it is proposed to enjoin the highway commission from proceeding with its work of widening the highway. The people of Menlo Park believe they have certain inalienable rights, among them the protection of their property, and they are going to make a tremendous battle for their constitutional prerogatives. More power to their elbow.

The last will and testament of the late Louis Stern, who died at his Atherton home on June 30th, was filed for probate in Redwood City this week. By the terms of the will the eighteen year-old daughter, Miss Ruth Stern, is bequeathed the sum of $1,000,000 in trust. The remainder of the estate is left to the widow. The value of the estate is not known, but its appraisal will be several million.

The trust estate for the 18-year-old girl, together with the estate left to her mother, includes interest and stock in the firm of Levi-Strauss & Co., San Francisco.

The will of the deceased reveals Stern's thought and consideration of his employes, to three of whom he leaves $2,000 each. They are Eugene Raffarin, cook; David Bassett, head gardener, and Paul Vincent, gardener, on the Atherton estate of the Sterns family.

Albert Hurschfeld, a San Francisco friend, is left a bequest of $2,500, while Louis Cahen and Robert Paul Cahen of San Francisco, sons of Isidore Cahen of that city, are left $1,000 each.

Numerous awards to various institutions are made from his estate by Sterns, the complete list of such bequests being as follows:

Federation of Jewish Charities of San Francisco, $5,000.

Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum and Home Society, San Francisco, $2,500.

Eureka Benevolent Society of San Francisco, $1,000.

Associated Charities of San Francisco, $1,000.

California Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, San Francisco, $1,000.

San Francisco Association for the Blind, $1,000.

San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, $1,000.

San Francisco Home for Incurables $1,000.

San Francisco League for the Hard of Hearing, $1,000.

San Francisco Fruit and Flower Mission, $500.

Stern's will was drafted January 30, 1924. The deceased passed away June 30.

Mrs. Stern and her husband's two brothers are named in the will as executrix and executors of the estate, but in the petition for letters of adminstration filed Thursday, Mrs. Stern and Jacob Stern decline in favor of Sigmund Stern, who will act as executor.

POWER companies in California do not fix their own rates.

Rates are fixed by the public through their well informed agents, the Railroad Commission, which also requires continuous, uniform, efficient service.

The public gets power and gas at cost, which includes cost of material, cost of labor, a fair return on the reasonable cost of the property used (out of which interest is paid), and taxes.

Cost does not include improvident or unnecessary expenditures, or any expenditure of which the public does not get the benefit. No profits are guaranteed in rates. Suecess depends on efficient, economical management.

Service at cost does not mean service without cost.
